

God Said, Ha!

Hilarious, unflinchingly honest, and moving, Julia Sweeney's autobiographical one-woman show God Said, Ha! wowed critics and audiences in Los Angeles and on Broadway. Now she has expanded her show into a memoir of one disastrous year in her life. In 1995, after an amicable divorce, Julia Sweeney bought a bungalow in Hollywood, settling in with her three cats to begin a rich, independent life of blissful solitude and personal growth. Her new home, she thought, would be a haven of domesticity and a cozy venue for fabulous dinner parties, and her new life would be the envy of her neighbors. But then, God said, Ha! One month after her move to Los Angeles, Julia's younger brother Michael was diagnosed with terminal lymph cancer. Julia's new home became Michael's, and then transformed into the Sweeney family center, as their parents moved from Spokane and took up residence in Julia's bedroom. Suddenly Julia's days revolved around Michael's chemotherapy sessions, and the gracious details of her dreamed-of life crumbled under the reality of sleeping on her sofa bed and finding her own kitchen filled with her parents' favorite beer and convenience foods. Julia coped by sharing the daily travails of the Sweeney family in poignant and hilarious detail at the Uncabaret in Los Angeles--from the minor disasters of everyday life, to the adjustments of living in close quarters with the people she spent half a lifetime growing up and away from, to the terrors and heartaches life-threatening illness brings. Then when it seemed things couldn't get worse, they did. Just weeks before Mike died, Julia was diagnosed with a rare form of cervical cancer--her sympathy cancer, as Mike called it--bonding them in a giddily black-humored club of two: the International House of Cancer. Within days of burying her brother, Julia underwent a radical hysterectomy and began her solo journey through this house shed never expected to move into, a house she had until now seen only from the outside looking in. Profoundly inspiring and courageously funny, God Said, Ha! marks the debut of a remarkable young writer.

Julia Sweeney - God Said Ha! at Discogs
Julia Sweeney : Now, we were especially concerned about this because my sister, Meg, lives in Tokushima, Japan and Tokushima is only forty miles from Kobe, God Said, Ha!: A Memoir by Julia Sweeney - Goodreads
Saturday Night Lives Julia Sweeney has teamed with producer Quentin Tarantino to create this motion picture presentation, God Said, Ha!. Julia was in a cozy God Said, Ha! Trailer - Video Dailymotion
Watch God Said, Ha! movie trailers, exclusive videos, interviews from the cast, movie clips and more at . God Said, Ha! Movie Trailer and Videos TV Guide
Julia Sweeneys one-woman show God Said, Ha! opens on an endearingly unassuming note, with a tale about the damage a casual visit to God Said, Ha!: A Memoir: Julia Sweeney: 9780553379235: Amazon
Critics Consensus: God Said, Ha! plumbs poignant depths, but Julia Sweeneys sharp, graceful wit makes this one-woman monologue a wise, : God Said, Ha!: Julia Sweeney, Rana Joy Glickman
Julia Sweeney tells the viewers the monologue about the hard time in her life when her brother fought with cancer and she was also diagnosed with a rare form God Said, Ha!
God Said, Ha!: A Memoir Paperback May 4, 1998. 1995 was, for Julia Sweeney, a truly horrible year. Her younger brother Mike was diagnosed with terminal cancer and moved in with her.
Julia Sweeneys God Said Ha! Broadway @ Lyceum Theatre There is a horselaugh implied in the title of Julia Sweeneys affecting one-woman show, God Said Ha!, and its on the lady herself.
Happily, she God Said, Ha! - Ethics & Public Policy Center - 2 min
Julia Sweeney tells the viewers the monologue about the hard time in her life when her brother God Said, Ha! Movie Review & Film Summary (1999) Roger Ebert - 7 min - Uploaded by Kabousha
Julia Sweeney (Its Pat) tells viewers a humorous monologue about the hard time in her life Standing in contrast to Grays carpet-bombing of embarrassing self-revelation is Julia Sweeney, whose stage show and film God Said, Ha!
Julia Sweeney - God Said Ha - Music God Said Ha! is a 1998 film that was written and directed by Julia Sweeney, who was also the movies star. It had its world premiere on 14 March 1998 at the God Said, Ha! - Audiobook
God Said, Ha! written, directed and performed by Julia Sweeney, formerly the androgynous Pat on Saturday Night Live, is a one-woman show consisting of