

You dont have to scare the hell out of me: to make me love Jesus

When we woke up this morning there were some promises assured to us; meaning they did not require much faith on our behalf. For instance this morning the sun was shining, for many the frigid polar winds of winter announced their presence and pillow like clouds may be hiding it but that has not stopped the fact that the sun is still shining (seen or unseen). This is just like our relationship with Jesus; we entitled to the promises of God by simply acknowledging His greatness but we are not merely people labeled to just say we believe and follow Jesus but most importantly that we are witnesses of the Light of the world. Servants of a love entrusted to us from eternity not overly righteous stewards of a law broken when God sent His only Son. The first stage to Salvation is to confess that Jesus is the Lord of your life. Romans 10:8-10 If you can do this you have been Saved and are walking in relationship with God. Learn to feed on the promises of the Lord, love on Him. Now the next step is to steer clear of negative Christians. You know the ones that shout and holler about Gods goodness but can find none in you. Those that equate blessings with only financial prosperity are the ones that cannot name a rich disciple out Christ group other than Judas the betrayer. Too many lose sight of the fact that scaring some one with the Bible is not how you draw them to God. Stop in the name of Love (Jesus) echoes in the hearts of true believers with a simple message: You dont have to scare the hell out of me to make me love Jesus. Duh, He is Love.
